Remember!

Spain team is organising their own competition. It is for Spanish speakers and the objective is to mimic their accent. If you want to participate, just contact them.

Did you know...

...the IMO Hall of Fame has a new leader? Teodor Von Burg, from Serbia, has earned his fourth gold medal at this IMO, thus becoming the contestant with the most awards in all the IMO history.

Games, talent and party

Awarding prizes at IMO's Got Talent

Yesterday, participants had another free day. Some delegations used it to go out, while others stayed in the hotel. Either way, they all really enjoyed themselves and got to know people from other countries.

As usual, there were many surprises at the Recreation Hall. There was the Math Odyssey, a tournament in which many teams tried to win points in several games and challenges, such as a Math Twister, Mancala, Liar's Dice and a Math Basketball. Also, the Tournament's Finals took place, and the champions of Football, Table Tennis, Ta Te Ti To and many other games were announced. There're still some prizes left, which will be awarded tonight.

One event that gathered a lot of people was the Simultaneous Chess Game, in which the International Master Jorge Rosito played against about thirteen rivals at the same time, and although some of the matches were tied, no one could beat him.

Late at night, the 'IMO's Got Talent' contest took place. Some participants could show their skills at singing, dancing and playing the piano. Once the competition was over, many of the guides and participants stayed for a party and danced for several hours.

Overall, it was a pretty nice day for everyone.

Voices from the IMO

What was your favourite thing from IMO 2012?

The greatest thing about IMO? Meeting nice people from all over the world, playing together, having fun... and tango :)

Cristina Meyer (Luxembourg)

I regard IMO as a festival rather than a competition, that's why I feel comfortable and calm while taking the exam.

Nguyen Ta Duy (Vietnam)

I really liked the visit to the Aquarium. It was nice to see the penguins and the dolphin show.

Benedikt Blöndal (Iceland)
